

Case Study

Weymouth Peace Garden

We were asked by the Weymouth Peace Garden volunteers to produce a leaflet, develop educational materials, and write a management plan for the Garden.

Red Plait also provided the volunteers with long term interpretation and heritage management support whilst they developed as a group and as a place of interest in Weymouth.

As an old Quaker burial ground, all the materials we produced respected the historic nature of the site, and recognised its new use as a communal space that aims to help understanding across different faiths.
